Private Tours for Groups and Families

A Remarkable Way for Students to Experience Boston History!

There are several walking tours of Boston's Freedom Trail available for schools, families and groups, but only one that brings Boston's history to life in such a unique and memorable fashion.

Ben Edwards is the only tour guide in Boston who shares original colonial-era documents and newspapers, and reveals fascinating, little-known stories about early Boston life passed down in his family for over 200 years.

This means children will hold history in their hands as they learn interesting information not found on a typical tour or in a standard textbook. And with Ben's sense of humor, they'll have fun doing it too!

Ben is also the author of the children's book One April in Boston (Spyglass Books, 2000) a tale of historical fiction based on years of research into the lives of his early Boston ancestors. The audio version of his book, over 2 hours on 3 CDs, is given away Free to each group who takes the tour. Hear audio samples now at www.walkingboston.com/audio.

Students and adults alike who have an interest in tracing their roots will find Ben's personal experiences and knowledge an added bonus on the tour. Ben is always happy to offer insight and advice that will inspire others to begin their quest. Ben's research into his Boston ancestors began with only a few clues and led to some amazing discoveries including a connection to the Sons of Liberty and Paul Revere.

Walking tours begin at Boston Common and cover 14 historic sites. For detailed information on the sites you'll see, visit www.walkingboston.com/tour and click on the "14 historic sites" link. The tour lasts for 2 hours and concludes at Copp's Hill Burying Ground in the North End. Testimonials are enclosed.

Prices for groups (10 to 30 people) are only $6 for children and $10 for adults.
Prices for families (under 10 people) are minimum $100.

Tours are available on select days and weekends from April to October. The number of tours in 2005 is limited due to Ben's business and travel schedule.
